

The Sunbury American.

NEW SERIES, VOL. 14, NO. 46.

SUNBURY, NORTHUMBERLAND COUNTY, PA.—SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1862.

OLD SERIES, VOL. 22, NO. 20

The Sunbury American.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY

BY H. B. MASSER,

Market Square, Sunbury, Penna.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

TWO DOLLARS PER ANNUM TO BE PAID HALF YEARLY IN ADVANCE. NO RATES DISCOUNTED UNLESS ARRANGEMENTS BE MADE.

TO CLUBS:

Three Copies to one address $3.00

Five Copies to one address $5.00

Seven Copies to one address $7.00

Five dollars in advance will pay for three years' subscription.

Advertisements will please send our Agents, and frank letters containing subscription money. They are permitted to do this under the Post Office Law.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

One Square of 10 Lines 2 Times $1.00

Every subsequent insertion 50 Cts.

One Square, 3 Months $2.00

Two Months $1.50

One Month $1.00

Business Cards or Five Lines, per annum $2.00

Business Cards and others, after first year, 50 Cts.

For the privilege of inserting 1000 advertisement, 10 Cts.

Larger Advertisements, as per agreement.

JOB PRINTING.

We have equipped with our establishment a well selected JOB OFFICE, which will enable us to execute in the most perfect manner, every variety of printing.

H. B. MASSER,

ATTORNEY AT LAW,

SUNBURY, PA.

Business attended to in the Counties of Northumberland, Union, Lycoming, Moutain and Columbia.

References in Philadelphia:

From John R. From, Cass, Gibson, Est, Lum, Smith & Co.

From S. B. Matthews, Attorney at Law, No. 125 Broadway, New York.

From J. W. G. Lisenberg, Proprietor, No. 125 Broadway, New York.

From W. G. Somers & Son, Importers and Dealers in Cloth, Casimires, Vestings, Tailors Trimmings, &c., No. 22 South Fourth Street, between Market and Chestnut Streets, Philadelphia.

Merchants also visiting the city will find it to their advantage to give them a call and examine their stock.

March 10, 1860.

THE INTERNATIONAL HOTEL.

BROADWAY, CORNER OF FRANKLIN STREET NEW YORK CITY.

First accommodations to Merchants and Tourists visiting New York, and all parts of the Empire. The Metropolitan Hotel, the most extensive and comfortable, and the most centrally located, convenient to places of business, and a place of entertainment.

23. Spacious parlors, well furnished sitting rooms, with a magnificent Ladies Parlor, forming an extensive view of Broadway.

24. Large and superbly furnished sitting rooms, with magnificent Parlor, commanding an extensive view of Broadway.

16. Being connected with the European plan, visitors can live in the most comfortable and economical manner. It is connected with where visitors can have their meals, or, if they desire they will be furnished with their own rooms.

Taylor's Celebrated Saloons,

The face of the Hotel is in the Metropolitan Hotel, which is well known to all who visit New York.

With all these advantages, the cost of living in the International, is much below that of any other first class Hotel in the city.

GILSON & CO., Proprietors.

August 4, 1860—17

A Good Chance for an Enterprising Man.

The advertiser wants a partner in the Marble business, a sober, persevering man who can speak both the English and German languages, to one that will suit, no cash capital required. For particulars inquire of

JOHN A. TAYLOR,

Northumberland, Aug. 3, 1861—3m

STOVES! STOVES!!

FOR SALE AT THE INDUSTRIAL STOVE WORKS, No. 21 North 2nd Street, Philadelphia, opposite Christ's Church, the most extensive and complete of any in the country. LEHIGH, VICTOR, COOK, and all other Cooking and Heating Stoves. All of which are guaranteed to give entire satisfaction. Prices given on application.

WM. C. NEMAN,

October 12, 1861—3m j. e.

SALADINGS, BOTTLED 50c, and Shellies Macaroni 50c. Price per barrel and 25c extra.

For Sale at this Office.

AND NEW LOT OF HARDWARE & SADDLERY. Also, the best assortment of Iron Nails and Steel to be found in the county, at the Mammoth Store of PHILING & GRANT'S, Sunbury, June 2, 1860.

CRACKERS! CRACKERS! just received and for sale by the barrel or pound, at the Confectionery Store of M. C. GEARHART, Sunbury, October 10, 1860.

BERGENS LAMPS.

A VERY LARGE and cheap assortment will be found at the Mammoth Store of PHILING & GRANT'S, Sunbury, Dec. 15, 1860.

HONEY LOVERS OF SOUP! A fresh supply of Macaroni and Confectionery at the Mammoth Store of PHILING & GRANT'S, Sunbury, June 2, 1860.

PATENT BRITANNIA STOPPERS for hot bottles for sale by

H. B. MASSER,

A FRESH SUPPLY OF DRUGS at the Mammoth Store. Also, a new lot of Cliffs, Zollicoffer's Brigade Surgeon, afterwards told me that among all his wounded, so far as they had come in, only one had been injured by a shot in the head. Further on, and to the distance of nearly half a mile, we reached another open, half cleared field on the east side of the road. In this field there stood some deadened timber, many large stumps and trees, some of the latter had been cut down, and some fallen to decay.

In this field the ground is quite steep, with a southern descent to near the centre of the field, and then rises as rapidly till you reach the woods on the south. In the eastern part of this field is a log house and barn and an apple orchard. Eighty five dead Rebels lay in the field, which, by way of distinction, I will call the "old field." Further on, and to the right of the road, is the corn field where the brave Indiana Tenth suffered so severely. In the woods and along the road the scene was dreadful. One body was placed in a sitting posture with the back leaning against

Select Poetry.

THE GAME OF LIFE—A HOMILY.

BY JOHN G. BARK.

There's a game which in fashion—I think it's called Euche; (Though I never have played it, for pleasure or lucre.)

In which, when the cards are in certain conditions, The players appear to have changed their positions, And one of them cries in a confident tone, "I think I may venture to go it alone!"

While watching the game, 'tis a whim of the bard's, A moral to draw from the skirmish of cards, And to fancy he finds in the trivial strife Some excellent hints for the battle of life; Where—whether the prize be a ribbon or throne— The winner is he who can "go it alone!"

When great Gallio proclaimed that the world In a regular orbit was ceaselessly whirled, And got—not a convert—for all of his pains, But only derision and prison and chains, "It must, for all that," was his answering tone, For he knew, like the Earth, he could "go it alone!"

When Kepler, with intellect piercing afar, Discovered the laws of each planet and star, And doctors, who ought to have lauded his name, Desired his learning, and blackened his fame, "I can wait," he replied, "till the truth you shall own;" For he felt in his heart he could "go it alone!"

Alas! for the player who idly depends, In the struggle of life, upon kindred or friends; Whatever the value of blessings like these, Nor comfort the coward who flinches, with a groan, That his crutches have left him to "go it alone!"

There's something, no doubt, in the hand you may hold, Health, family, culture, wit, beauty, and gold, The fortune's owner may fairly regard As, such in its way, a most excellent card; Yet the game may be lost, with all these for your own, Unless you've the courage to "go it alone!"

In battle or business, whatever the game, In law or in love, it is ever the same; To struggle for power, or the scramble for gold, Let this be your motto—"Rely on yourself!" For, whether the prize be a ribbon or throne, The victor is he who can "go it alone!"

New York Ledger.

Miscellaneous.

THE LATE BATTLE IN KENTUCKY.

A VISIT TO THE BATTLE FIELD.

The distance from Fishing Creek to Wet's Cross Roads, where our forces had been bivouached the night before the battle, is two and a half miles. We had made about two miles of this distance, when the artillery ceased firing and soon after we met a man riding furiously down the hill. When we succeeded in bringing him to a halt, he told us Zollicoffer was dead, and his army in full retreat. This man was hardly recognized by his old acquaintances; for his naked, sparkling eyes, and his hair, which had been cut short, and was now matted with mud. It was Dr. Hale. When he had told his story, on his way to tell it to other persecuted Union men.

My first inquiry was for the Kentucky Twelfth; but no one could tell me where they were, or what part they had taken in the action. Only one man, who had been brought in one of the Minnesota trains, surrounded by some twenty soldiers. It had been stripped of all the clothing except the pants, and two soldiers were busy in washing off the mud which had been covered. It was almost as white and transparent as the most delicate work. The fatal wound was in the breast, and was evidently made with a pistol ball, as it could be easily covered with the end of my finger. There was another wound upon the inside of his right arm, above the elbow, and still another glancing wound in his hip. This was Zollicoffer! He whose name had so long been a terror to men who loved their country on the banks of the Cumberland. With some doubts at the time in my mind as to whether this was really the body of the Rebel chief, I turned away to visit the field of battle.

The hospital tent had been hastily pitched in a small open field at the cross roads, and along the edge of the woods skirting the south side of this field were the first marks of the storm of destruction which had raged so fearfully an hour before. Nearly through the middle of the field, in a south or southwesterly direction, I entered the woods on the east side of this road. Along the edge of the open field lay the bodies of four or five of our men. As I advanced into the woods, the marks of cannon shot could be seen on every side. I saw one of those marks near a dead or wounded man who had been struck with a cannon shot. Dr. Cliffe, Zollicoffer's Brigade Surgeon, afterwards told me that among all his wounded, so far as they had come in, only one had been injured by a shot in the head. Further on, and to the distance of nearly half a mile, we reached another open, half cleared field on the east side of the road. In this field there stood some deadened timber, many large stumps and trees, some of the latter had been cut down, and some fallen to decay.

In this field the ground is quite steep, with a southern descent to near the centre of the field, and then rises as rapidly till you reach the woods on the south. In the eastern part of this field is a log house and barn and an apple orchard. Eighty five dead Rebels lay in the field, which, by way of distinction, I will call the "old field." Further on, and to the right of the road, is the corn field where the brave Indiana Tenth suffered so severely. In the woods and along the road the scene was dreadful. One body was placed in a sitting posture with the back leaning against Five Hours with the New Secretary of War.

WASHINGTON, January 27, 1862.

To-day was the first day that it was generally understood by the people that any one could get to see the new Secretary of War, without an introduction, or having to wait in the lobby a week or two, as suited the convenience of the post office door-keeper, or, as military men would say, the outer pickets—Mr. Stanton occupies the room formerly used by previous administrators, at the head of the stairs in the second story.

The adjoining room is used by Mr. Watson, Assistant Secretary. In this room Mr. Stanton receives the commission, Mr. Moore, at sitting, and in the corner is Mr. Watson, at his desk. The clock strikes ten, the waiting crowd rush in as the doors swing open, and being among them, we soon find ourselves in the presence of the Secretary. Now one comes in from front of him, and with a smiling countenance he reaches out his hand and takes a hearty grip with a grey haired man. "Well, sir, what is your wish?"

"My name is ———; my son fought at Springfield, and was wounded in the arm—

He was on Fremont's Staff, but is now with out a commission; I want one for him that he may again see his other arm here on the Potomac, or in Missouri." "You shall have it," replied Mr. Stanton, and turning to his Secretary he ordered him to note the case; "return home," he added, "and the papers will be sent you;" and as the man at length departed, he stepped to one side to two ladies who had just come in. "Madam, what can I do for you?" "Want a clerkship for my son; his father was killed at the battle of Belmont." Turning again he noted the case, took the address, and told the lady to send him a sample of her boy's writing and he would cure for him. The other lady was connected with a Minnesota Regiment over the river, and had some complaint about the treatment she had received in camp from some of the officers. "Madame, you must go to the head quarters of Gen. McClellan." "I have been there, and they would not read my papers or listen to my case." "Then give them to me, and I'll see why."

A small bright eyed boy, all alone, was trying to work his way through the crowd, and the Secretary turned to him and asked what he was doing there, and he said he was looking for his father, and had not come home with the rest. "He gave his name and regiment, it was noted, and the Secretary, lifting him up, kissed him upon the forehead, and said—"Your father should be proud of such a noble boy, and I'll see that he is restored to his home."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one," he said, and the man, who had some papers to want to read, said, "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

An individual has some new invention for fire-arms. "Go to the ordnance department and get them to investigate it, and if they find it useful, I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A large and well dressed man wanted a few words with the Secretary. "Some little matter about a contract," he said, and the Secretary, looking at him, said, "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you in a plain one."

A man with a half military dress gave him a letter, and the Secretary, looking at it, said he would see to it that it was delivered to the man who had written it. "I will be glad to see it if it is a plain one, and will send it to you